At the beginning of planning this work, I was thinking about who I wanted to take as the prototype, and then I thought of my friend who was isolated by the class. Of course, I also integrated some of my own past. Because I was isolated by the class in junior high school, I can understand his feelings very well, so I made this animation. This is also the first time I made a short film about isolated subjects. During this period, I also spent a lot of time to explore how to make a good picture. Of course, the final product is quite satisfactory.
